

Abra Employee Self-Service provides employees and managers with the power and flexibility to view and/or update their personal information using an Internet browser, depending on their level of access. Fully integrated with Abra Suite®, Abra Employee Self-Service helps reduce the administrative burden of your HR and Payroll departments which allows more time for strategic activities.

Customize and Use Abra Employee Self-Service the Way You Want To

With Abra Employee Self-Service, you control the access rights your employees receive. There are three levels of access you can assign: view only, automatic email notification to HR staff and full view and update rights for employees.

- Set up your system so that employees can only view information. This enables employees to get instant answers to HR- and Payroll-related questions, while reducing the administrative burden on your staff.
- Allow employees to enter changes and automatically notify HR staff to update their personal information. You can set up Abra Employee Self-Service to automatically email your HR staff with employee's new information so that only authorized HR personnel can make changes to the Abra Suite database.
- Allow employees to enter changes and make updates to their information. Enable your employees to make their own changes to demographic information and directly update Abra Suite.

- Make important company-wide information available to everyone. Display a company-wide message of the day or offer access to phone and birthday lists.

Maintain Maximum Security of Sensitive Data

- Ensure employee information is secure with user-defined, encrypted passwords.
- Easily discover which employees are using Abra Employee Self-Service with the Login Activity Report. You can even track unsuccessful logins to see if an employee is trying to access other employee records.
- Define user session length to automatically log off employees who leave their system running.

Give Your Employees Access to Personal HR/Payroll Information

Abra Employee Self-Service gives employees the ability to access his or her payroll and tax information, benefits elections, vacation, sick time accruals, and more. Employees can be authorized to view:

- Attendance transactions and paid time off balances
- Current benefits elections

- Pay check history, tax withholdings and direct deposit information
- Training schedule and class offerings
- Demographic information such as address and phone number

Depending on their level of access, employees can also update their demographic information with Abra Employee Self-Service.

Allow Managers to Access Direct Report Employee Information

Abra Employee Self-Service enables managers to quickly access information about their direct reports so they can manage their teams more effectively. Managers can view their employees':

- Attendance transactions and paid time off balances
- Current benefits elections
- Training schedule and classes taken and completed
- Demographic information such as phone number and emergency contact information
- Performance Reviews due
- Birthday lists
